It's better for you to try a method that suits you best before you can see which treatment method suits you best.

In recent years, standards in the UK have slipped significantly and even more so in impoverished areas.